Strasser Woodenworks Welcomes Andrew Reseigh as its Vice President of Operations and Managing Director

Following fourteen years of international leadership experience, Reseigh returns to the U.S. and joins the family business

(Woodinville, WA, May 7, 2019) Strasser Woodenworks, manufacturer of high-quality, freestanding wood bathroom furniture, announces the appointment of Andrew Reseigh as Vice President of Operations and Managing Director. Reporting directly to Strasser President Andy Hedreen, Reseigh brings his extensive international experience in the resource industry to the family business in Woodinville, Washington. Effective March 25, 2019, Reseigh's appointment to the Strasser executive team follows his successful leadership roles in engineering and finance management in South East Asia, India, Egypt, West Africa, and most recently Spain.

"Having spent the last fourteen years living and working overseas, I've seen how much other cultures admire American business. The American dream is alive and well, and I look forward to helping Strasser continue to build its reputation for American-made quality while enhancing its already admirable sustainable manufacturing practices," Reseigh says, adding, "I aim to grow the company while placing the highest value on our greatest asset—Strasser's employees and customers."

Prior to joining Strasser, Reseigh held various roles in the resource industry including operations, asset management, financial performance monitoring, marketing and branding, business development, training and motivational team leadership. "We're confident that Andy's broad areas of expertise and comprehensive experience in international business will successfully lead Strasser into 2020 and beyond," says Hedreen.
